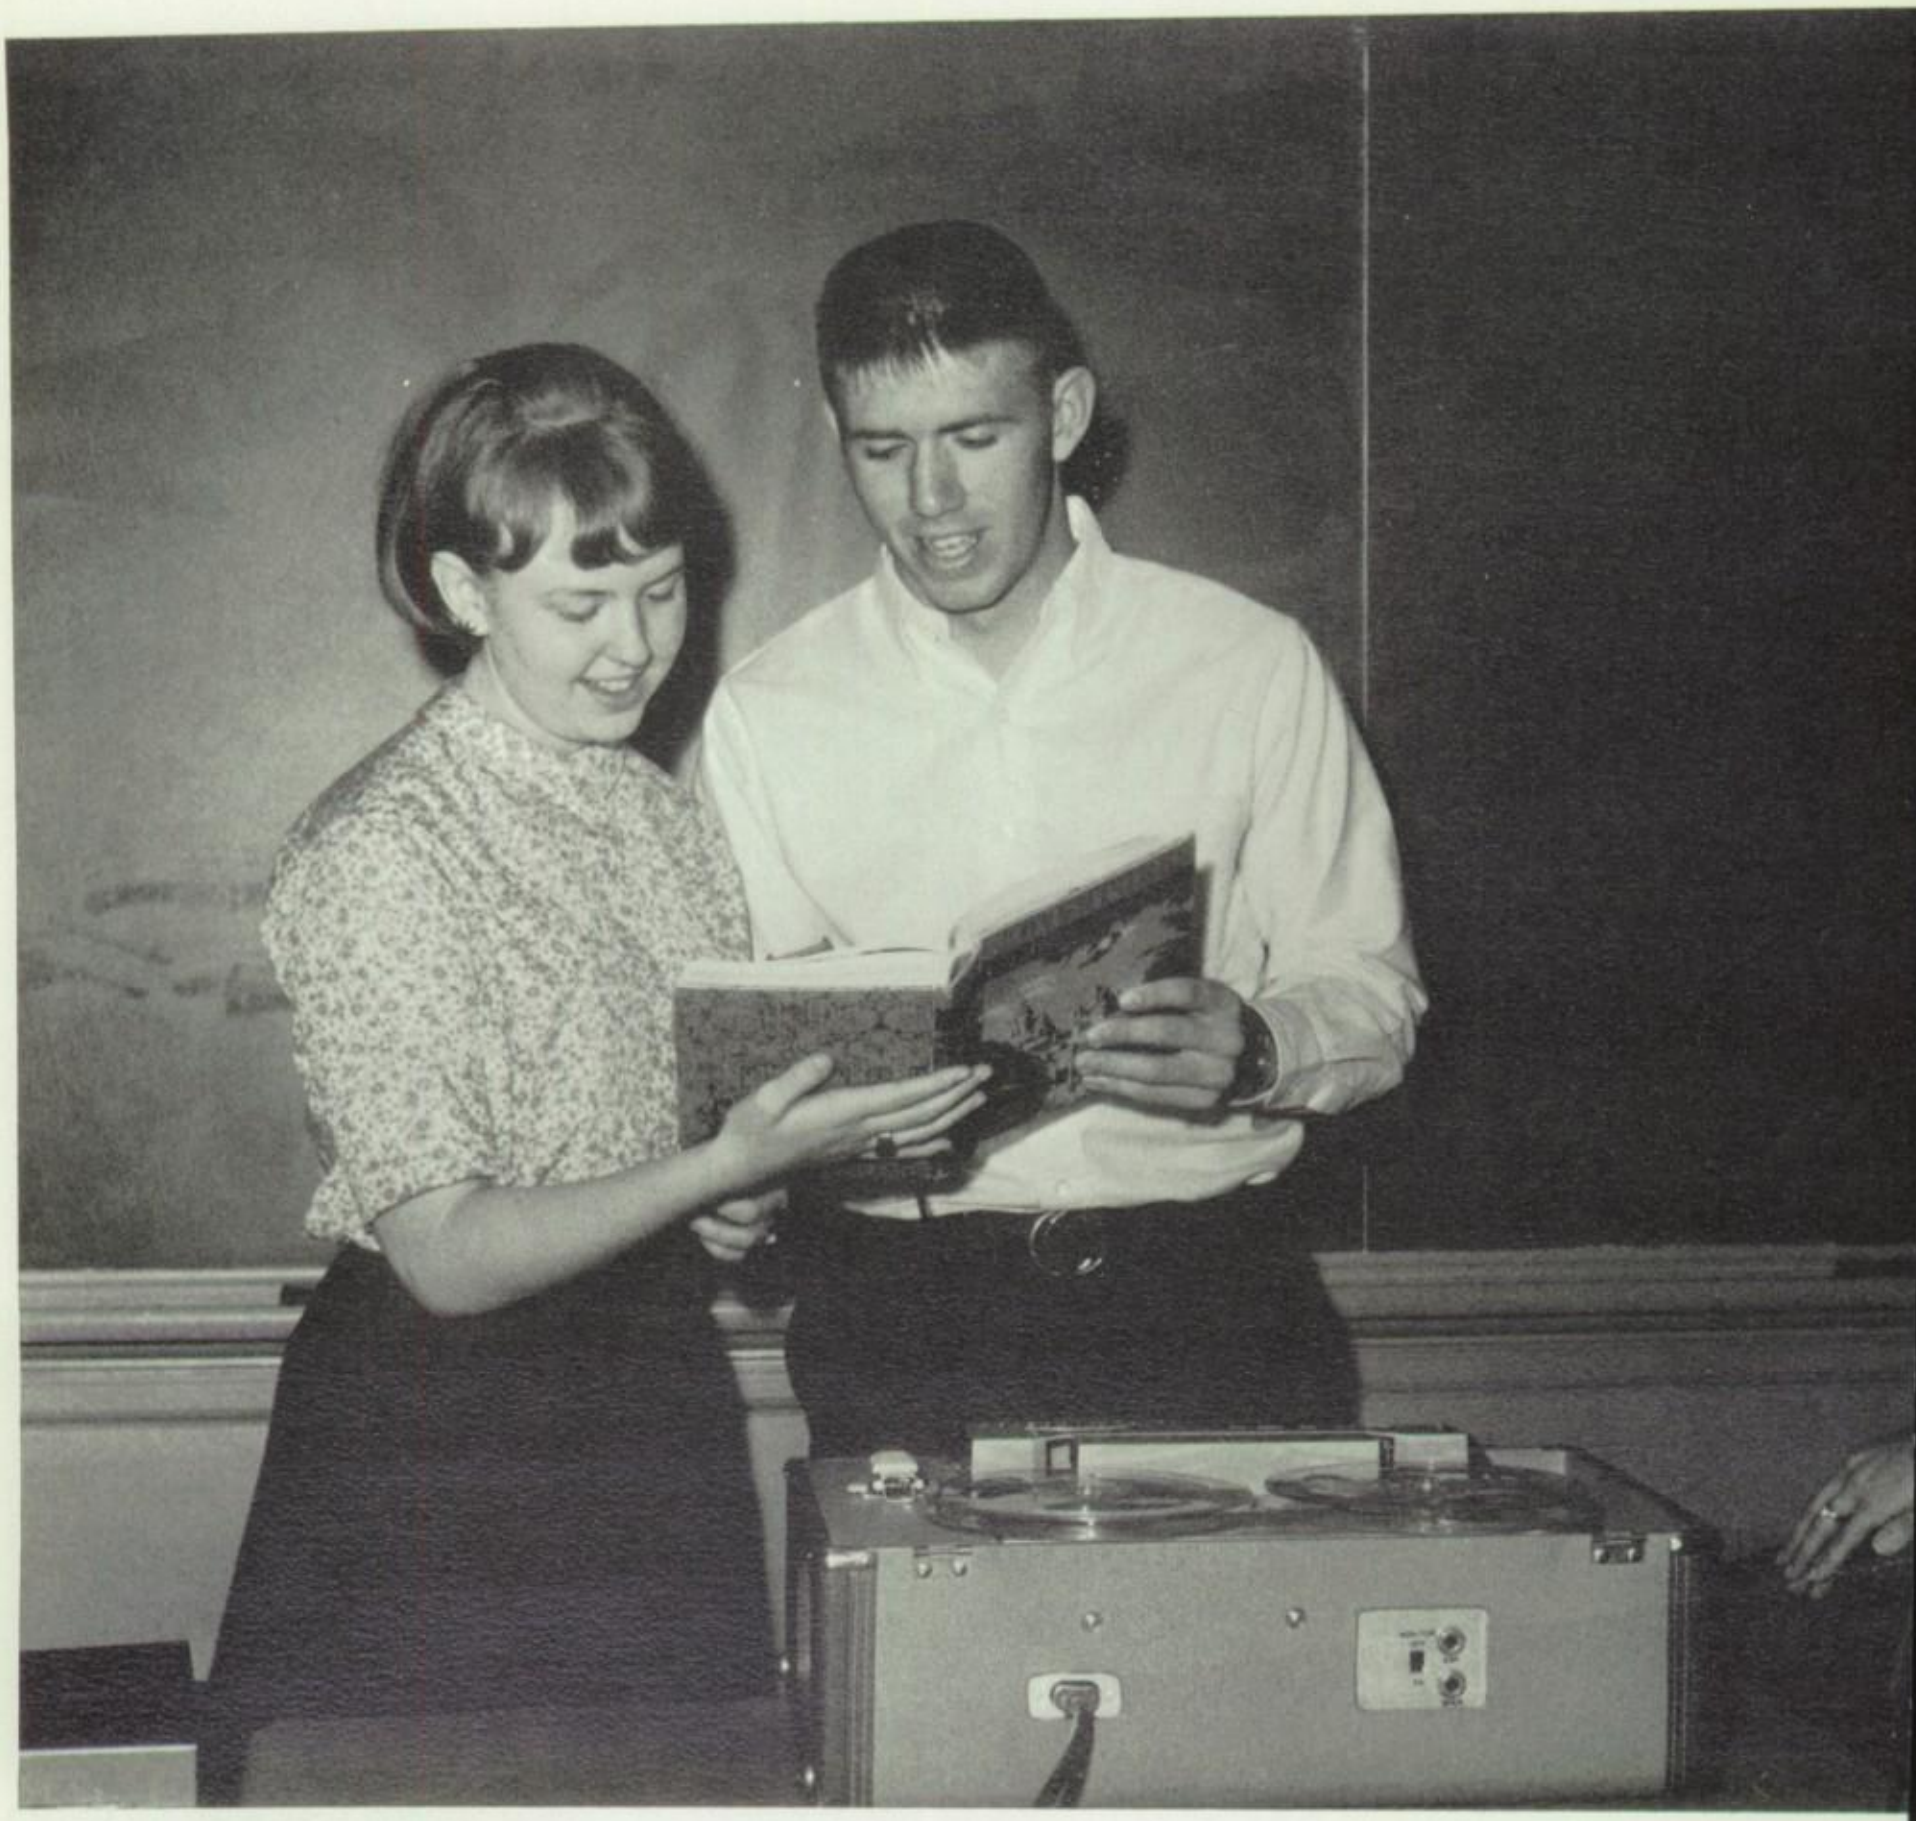
Today's annual staff is faced with decisions concerning the advertisements, layouts, and copy for their book. But twenty six years ago when the first staff was appointed to edit an annual for the newly opened school, Louisa County High School, they were confronted with a problem which the following staffs have never had -- that of selecting a name for their annual. To help them decide, they asked each class to submit a name to be voted upon by the annual staff. They received many different suggestions for the title including "The Twig" and "The Apple", but they finally selected "The Core". The title was probably suggested by a student from the Apple Grove District. Although during the past quarter of a century other staffs have tried to adopt a new name, "The Core" has managed to withstand all these opposing efforts.

So to you, the students and faculty of Louisa County High School, we present "The Core" -- 1966.



"Then said a teacher, Speak to us of Teaching. If the teacher is indeed wise he does not bid you to enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind."

Administration, guidance established

Mr. Martin gives his sign of approval to another annual expenditure.

Every organization needs someone at the controls to keep things running smoothly and efficiently. Louisa County High School accomplishes this through its Administrative Department, headed by Mr. Harry S. Martin, Principal. With the help of Mr. William Morris, assistant principal, and Mrs. Marcia Hollins, school secretary, Mr. Martin regulated the school schedule, managed school business and student activities, as well as gave guidance and supervision to the faculty. When a discussion with a student did not bring satisfactory results, Mr. Martin found the demerit system very impressive.

Besides teaching five periods of government, Mr. Morris was in charge of bus drivers and coping with problems which developed on the buses. Mrs. Hollins had quite an inclusive job as school secretary typing school correspondence, ordering supplies and books, and keeping accurate accounts. She was, also, responsible for compiling the daily absentee lists.

Students should realize the importance of this work to the welfare of their school and respect and admire these people.

Managing the bus drivers consumed much of Mr. Morris' time throughout '65-66.

Even with her desk piled high with work, Mrs. Hollins managed to smile.

Donated by the State Guidance Department, the Viewdeck enables students like Judy Morse to study college slides.

Whether interested in a vocational commercial, or academic career, each student obtains valuable assistance from the guidance department. Academic students in particular, learned much about the colleges of their choices through the College Night Program, sponsored by the guidance departments in this area. The students, also, turn to the guidance office to solve problems concerning their records, college and scholarship plans, and job openings. Each students' record and standardized testing score is filed in the guidance office.

A storehouse of six thousand books, the library has available a variety of materials to assist both students and teachers. Besides offering many types of teaching aids to supplement the textbooks, the library includes such additional materials as periodicals, audio-visual equipment, a tape recorder, and paperback books. Films are secured through a film service which operates through state and regional centers.

Not only a research center, the library is the scene of club and faculty meetings.

Students of Mrs. Layman broaden their appreciation of American literature through her interest in poetry and short stories.

After having mastered the fundamentals of grammar and vocabulary, the English students advanced to creative writing, which included personal essays, poems, short stories, and speeches. By studying the literary techniques of American and English authors, they were able to develop their own style of writing, as well as to gain an appreciation of good literature.

Branching from the study of English, forensics provided the students with an opportunity to engage in creative writing on a competitive basis. Other than writing, forensics included dramatics, debate, public speaking and spelling.

Two years of Latin and three years of French were offered to the academic students to provide them with an opportunity to better understand their own language, by clarifying its construction and broadening its vocabulary. Foreign languages came alive to the students through the use of colorful slides and maps of ancient Rome and tape recordings of vibrant French lectures. The advanced students of these languages became acquainted with the historical, as well as the cultural aspects of the respective countries.

For those with journalistic interests, journalism furnished the background for careers in newspaper and magazine work.

Hey, James, you can't make a circle with a triangle!!

An introduction to chemistry and biology was offered to the eighth graders. Because of the space limitations, all laboratory work was in the form of teacher demonstrations, lectures, discussions, and pupil research. Besides continuing their study of biology, the freshmen focused their attention on other aspects of science, such as meteorology, astronomy, geology, and psychology.

With a scalpel in one hand and dissecting pins in the other, the sophomores braved the piercing odor of formaldehyde and the dissecting of the Rana pipiens, to complete their year of biology. Understanding an extensive study of chemistry, the juniors investigated the elements - their properties and uses. Again this course could not be fully carried out due to the lack of sufficient laboratory facilities.

Offered to academic seniors, physics promoted an understanding of the relationship between the major elements of physics - force and matter.

The mathematics students at Louisa County High School have laid a foundation for this technical age by studying modern math. Students were first introduced to this math when they ventured into eighth grade math, which involves a general review of mathematics, or academic math, which includes an introduction to algebra.

Having plunged head-on into a basic course of Algebra I, the freshmen were baffled by such things as linear equations, and rational and irrational numbers. In the geometry course, the sophomores achieved some basic understanding of the relationship between the elements of space and the use of logic. Juniors spent two-thirds of the year studying Algebra II and the other third studying trigonometry. Advanced Math for the seniors is comprised of the study of analytical geometry, the theory of numbers, and exponential functions.

Mechanical Drawing, an elective, develops a manipulative skill that has a carry-over into many fields.

The program of citizenship education offered at Louisa County High School is social studies. The courses offered in this field are world geography, civics, world history, United States history, and United States government.

Students in world geography learned how the elements of man's natural environments were distributed over the surface of the earth. The students' attention was focused on the political, physical, social, and economical patterns of all parts of the earth.

Besides developing skills in historical research and discovering the history and traditions of the countries of the world, the American history students also learned the effect that these traditions have had on the contemporary world scene.

Civics and government courses were concerned with making students aware of their duties and responsibilities of becoming well-informed and participating citizens in their county, state, and world.

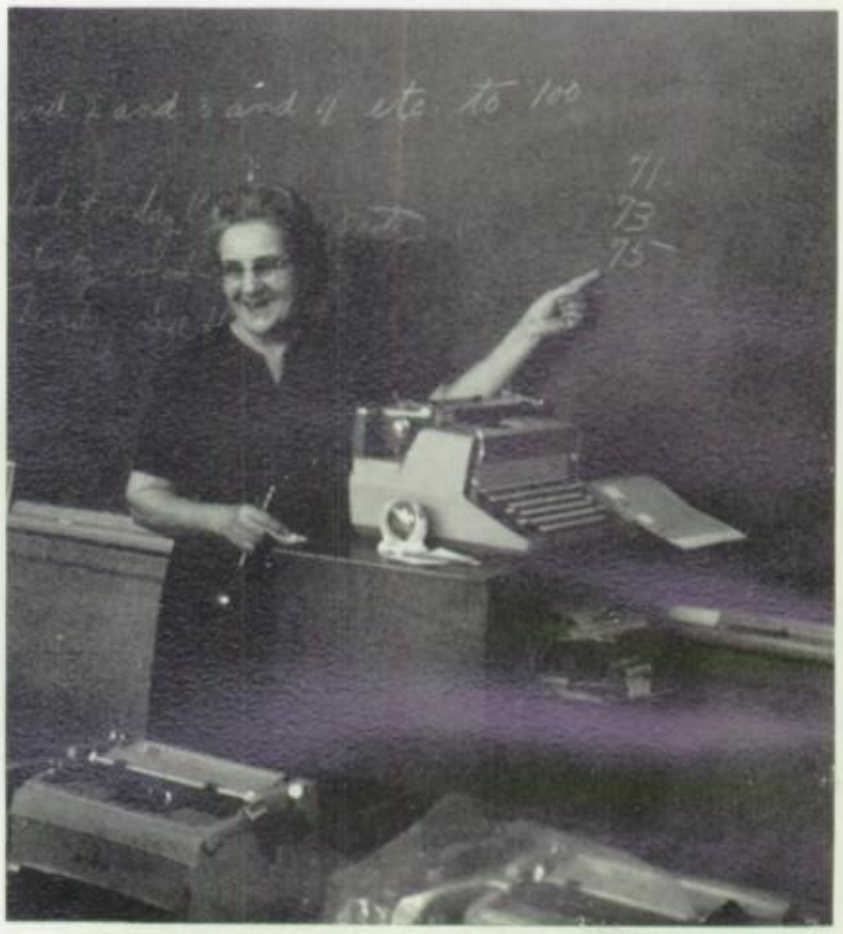
The steady clicking of typewriters was always a familiar sound in the Business Department this year. Students with business careers in mind found many courses available to guide them into the fast pace of the business world.

New shorthand students soon learned what those strange, wiggly lines meant, and the novice typists discovered that blank keyboards were not so mystifying after all. Two years of both shorthand and typing were a part of the business curriculum, as well as courses in bookkeeping, business principles, and general business.

While business principles dealt with business law, in bookkeeping the students studied the fundamentals of record keeping, payrolls, tax deductions and accounting. Students in this field, also, learned how to use adding machines, the dictaphone, and electric typewriters.



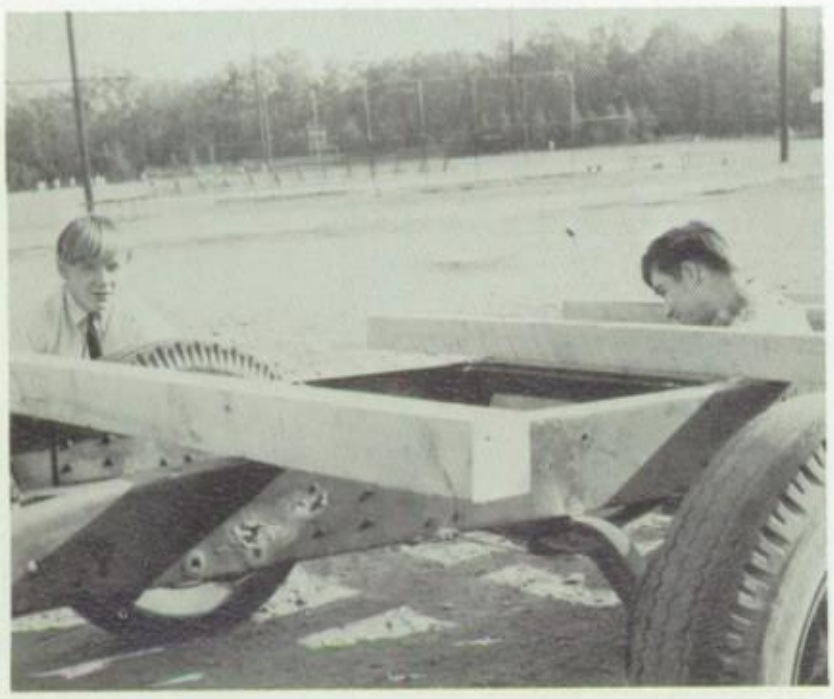
"Don't panic, this is only the page number," assures Mrs. Goodling.

Advanced homemaking class offered

Future farmers, homemakers, and mechanics were trained for their future careers through the vocational program offered at Louisa County High School.

Since it now takes as much education to be a farmer as to enter any other profession, courses in management and handling of livestock, forestry, soil judging, crop raising, and mechanics are an essential part of the agricultural program offered. Having realized that all the boys enrolled in this course do not plan to be farmers, the Agriculture Department was designed to develop many useful skills.

"Let's see, first you thread the needle," mumbles Patsy Lamb.



This tractor trailor is only one example of the projects the agriculture class undertakes for the community.

By teaching the girls how to cook, sew and manage today's home, the Home Economics Department was organized to promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking.

This year a special course was offered to prepare students for employment in the fields of occupational home economics. These seniors, who had completed two or more years of home economics, chose clothing as the area of their interest and earned an income by sewing for other people.

"You must be kidding, Coach! Jump??"

Throughout the year, the Physical Education Department maintained an active schedule of vigorous calisthenics and stimulating sports for boys and girls. Besides the new parallel bars, the Athletic Department purchased a rebounder, which was essential in the development of jumping and rebounding in both girls' and boys' basketball. Other P. E. favorites included field hockey, archery, volleyball and soccer.

Besides physical development, P. E. also stressed mental hygiene through the classroom study of health, first aid, and driver's training.

At Louisa County High School, the P. E. Department still acclaimed the purposes on which it was founded - to encourage good sportsmanship, and to develop alert minds and healthy bodies.

Because it has no studio in which to work, the art department is limited in what it can do, but it tries to introduce the fundamentals of drawing and of color. In the fall semester the principles of drawing were mastered and a thorough understanding of color was developed. During the springtime, more creative work was done both with pencil drawings and with water colors. Throughout the year an appreciation of art was cultivated through the study of great paintings, as well as through creative work.

Though it was composed of only twenty-four members, this year's band proved that a small but hard-working group can do a great deal. After having started the year by marching in the Labor Day Parade and boosting school spirit at the football games, the band concentrated on a Christmas Concert. School assemblies were sparked by various types of music provided by this enthusiastic group.

Newly organized, choral was offered as a class to all interested students. Its thirty-eight, industrious members gave several interesting concerts and assemblies, with the hope of establishing a permanent interest in their class.

"The engine? You must be kidding!"

"How do you open it?" Referring to the hood, this is perhaps the first question the driver's education student asks. Under the careful eye of the instructor, the student learns the parts of the engine, and what makes it go before he even starts the Ford.

After several under-the-hood lessons, the student and his courageous instructor take off. During the behind-the-wheel instruction, the student learns to cope with the hazards of the highway.

Prior to the behind-the-wheel instruction, a period of thirty-six hours of classroom instruction is required. Both the student and the teacher work together to make the teenager a safe and courteous driver.

Through the use of study guides and manuals, the Industrial Cooperative Training class offered the opportunity for students to study material related to their field of work, and, also, to investigate human relations. These six girls and four boys spend part of the day in employment.

One hundred and six Louisa Seniors

CLASS OF '66 . . . THIS IS YOUR LIFE!!

When the broad doors of L.C.H.S. opened in 1961, one hundred and fifty timid eighth graders found themselves in an atmosphere which would mold their futures and their careers. Organizing your class, you elected George Gordon as president and, with the assistance of your sponsors, you gradually oriented yourselves with student life at L.C.H.S.

As freshmen, you truly joined the ranks by participating in club and sports activities. Intramurals were a pleasant pastime for your class, as well as the sock hops which your leader, Elmo Daniel, successfully planned and carried out.

Your enthusiastic sophomore president, Andy Woolfolk, accomplished several ludicrous projects, including a Christmas candle sale and a dance. The highlight of your sophomore year was your trip to see THE KING AND I at the Virginia Museum in Richmond.

With Janet Sharpe as president, the Class of '66 experienced a rewarding year as juniors. Everyone worked arduously as the sales of Rebel pennants, magazine subscriptions and chances on a record album filled the class treasury. The hootenanny and sock hops were not only profitable projects, but also fun for everyone. You ordered your class rings and eagerly anticipated their arrival before Christmas. One important aspiration remained -- that of your prom. Your ingenious ideas and willingness to work made "Blue Hawaii" the most exotic and yet, the least expensive prom in years.

But even with all your projects, your class never forgot its main concern --studies -- as college-bound Juniors attended College Night and tried their luck at College Boards. Eleven outstanding Juniors were tapped into the N.H.S. while four of your young journalists were selected for membership in the Quill & Scroll. Your classmates excelled in all fields as Brenda Deavers was crowned "Miss L.C.H.S.", Robert Guild won the forestry judging contest, and Nelson Drew was a first place winner in the poetry division of the State Creative Writing Contest. Curious about state government, you chose William Alberts, Kenny Lancaster, Ann Edwards, and Janet Sharpe as your delegates to Virginia Boys'-Girls' State. Upcoming staff heads - William Alberts, Nelson Drew, Ann Edwards, and Janet Sharpe - attended the S.I. P.A. Convention.

Of all your years at L.C.H.S., your senior year was probably your most important and most serious. To raise more money for your class dinner and dance, your president, Nelson Drew, carried out seasonal candy sales and the presentation of the comedy "The Campbells Are Coming". Heading club and sports activities at L. C. H. S., the Class of '66 displayed outstanding leaders, whether struggling in school to get the honor code passed or on the football field to make Homecoming a long-remembered occasion for the seven Senior princesses chosen by the team.

Soon after your Jr.-Sr. Prom, you donned caps and gowns and received your diplomas in a graduation ceremony on the front lawn of your Alma Mater.

For you, these have been the trial and error years . . . the formative years. For a few, formal education will cease; for most, it has only begun.

Junior Magazine Drive advances

Leading their class through its junior year are Vicky Duggins, Sec.; Dwight Rigsby, Pres.; Barry Noel, Vice-Pres.; Durwood Willis, Treas.

Under the leadership of their officers and sponsors, Mr. Artz and Mr. Knapp, the Class of '67 plunged excitedly into a year filled with important plans and responsibilities.

Thoughts of approaching college days became more apparent to them as they struggled through aptitude tests and Preliminary College Boards. College Night at Albemarle High School helped the academic juniors learn more about entrance requirements and college life.

Fund-raising, an important part of their junior year, included the sale of decals and pens, and a magazine drive. With the boys as "enthusiastic cheerleaders" and the girls as "hard-nosed players", together the juniors and seniors provided hilarious entertainment at the powder-puff game.

Highlighting their junior year were two very special occasions: the arrival of the class rings and the Junior-Senior Prom, a memorable climax for their year's efforts.

As they look forward to another year of challenging experience, plans for a rewarding and stimulating senior year are now being formed by the juniors.

Class officers: Deborah Dymacek, Pres.; Sally McGraw, Sec.-Treas.; Mary Frances Holley, Vice Pres.

With one hundred and thirty-nine students, the Class of 1969 went into full swing as the doors of L. C. H. S. opened for its 1965-66 session. These vivacious sophomores, eagerly displayed their school spirit by enlivening pep rallies and cheering our team on to victory.

Anticipating their Junior-Senior Prom, the sophomores, under the direction of Miss Flynn and Miss Johnson, had numerous money-making activities. Taking up the task of planning the annual Miss L. C. H. S. contest, they increased their class treasury tremendously. The spring hootenanny provided an attraction for all ages.

The sophomores enjoyed an eventful junior year and foresee an even brighter junior year.

Educational Survey and Scholastic

The class officers for the Class of 1969 are Vickie Spicer, Vice-Pres.; Jane Woodward, Sec.-Treas.; Cathy McGraw, President.

Entering every imaginable phase of school life, one-hundred and thirty-nine freshmen made their second year at L. C. H. S. an active one. Participating in clubs and Jr. County Government, these energetic students also excelled in J.V. sports and cheerleading.

With the sponsors, Miss Jones and Mrs. Prince supervising them, the class puzzled over Educational Survey and Scholastic Achievement tests.

Even though they found little time later in the year to devote to their class projects, the freshmen resolved to extend these projects into their sophomore year, in hopes of increasing their class treasury.

One hundred and sixty-eight students

The officers of the largest class ever at L. C. H. S. are Gordon Brooks, Pres.; Rosebud Woolfolk, Sec.-Treas.; and Charles Chambers, Vice-Pres.

Adjusting to high school life was one of the greatest accomplishments of the eighth grade class. The new surroundings of L. C. H. S. only challenged these eager students to spur onward. Their interest in school life was demonstrated by their active participation in Junior County Government, J. V. sports, forensics, Teen Council, and S. C. A.

A mass of one hundred and sixty-eight students, the Class of '70 stood up well under the strain of Differential Aptitude Tests, Tuberculin skin tests, and exams. These same yelling, laughing, confetti-throwing eighth graders, sponsored by Mrs. Guild and Mr. Brantley, helped cheer our teams on to victory as they displayed their enthusiastic school spirit.

Feeling more secure and familiar with high school life, the Class of 1970 should enjoy a busy and active term as freshmen next year.

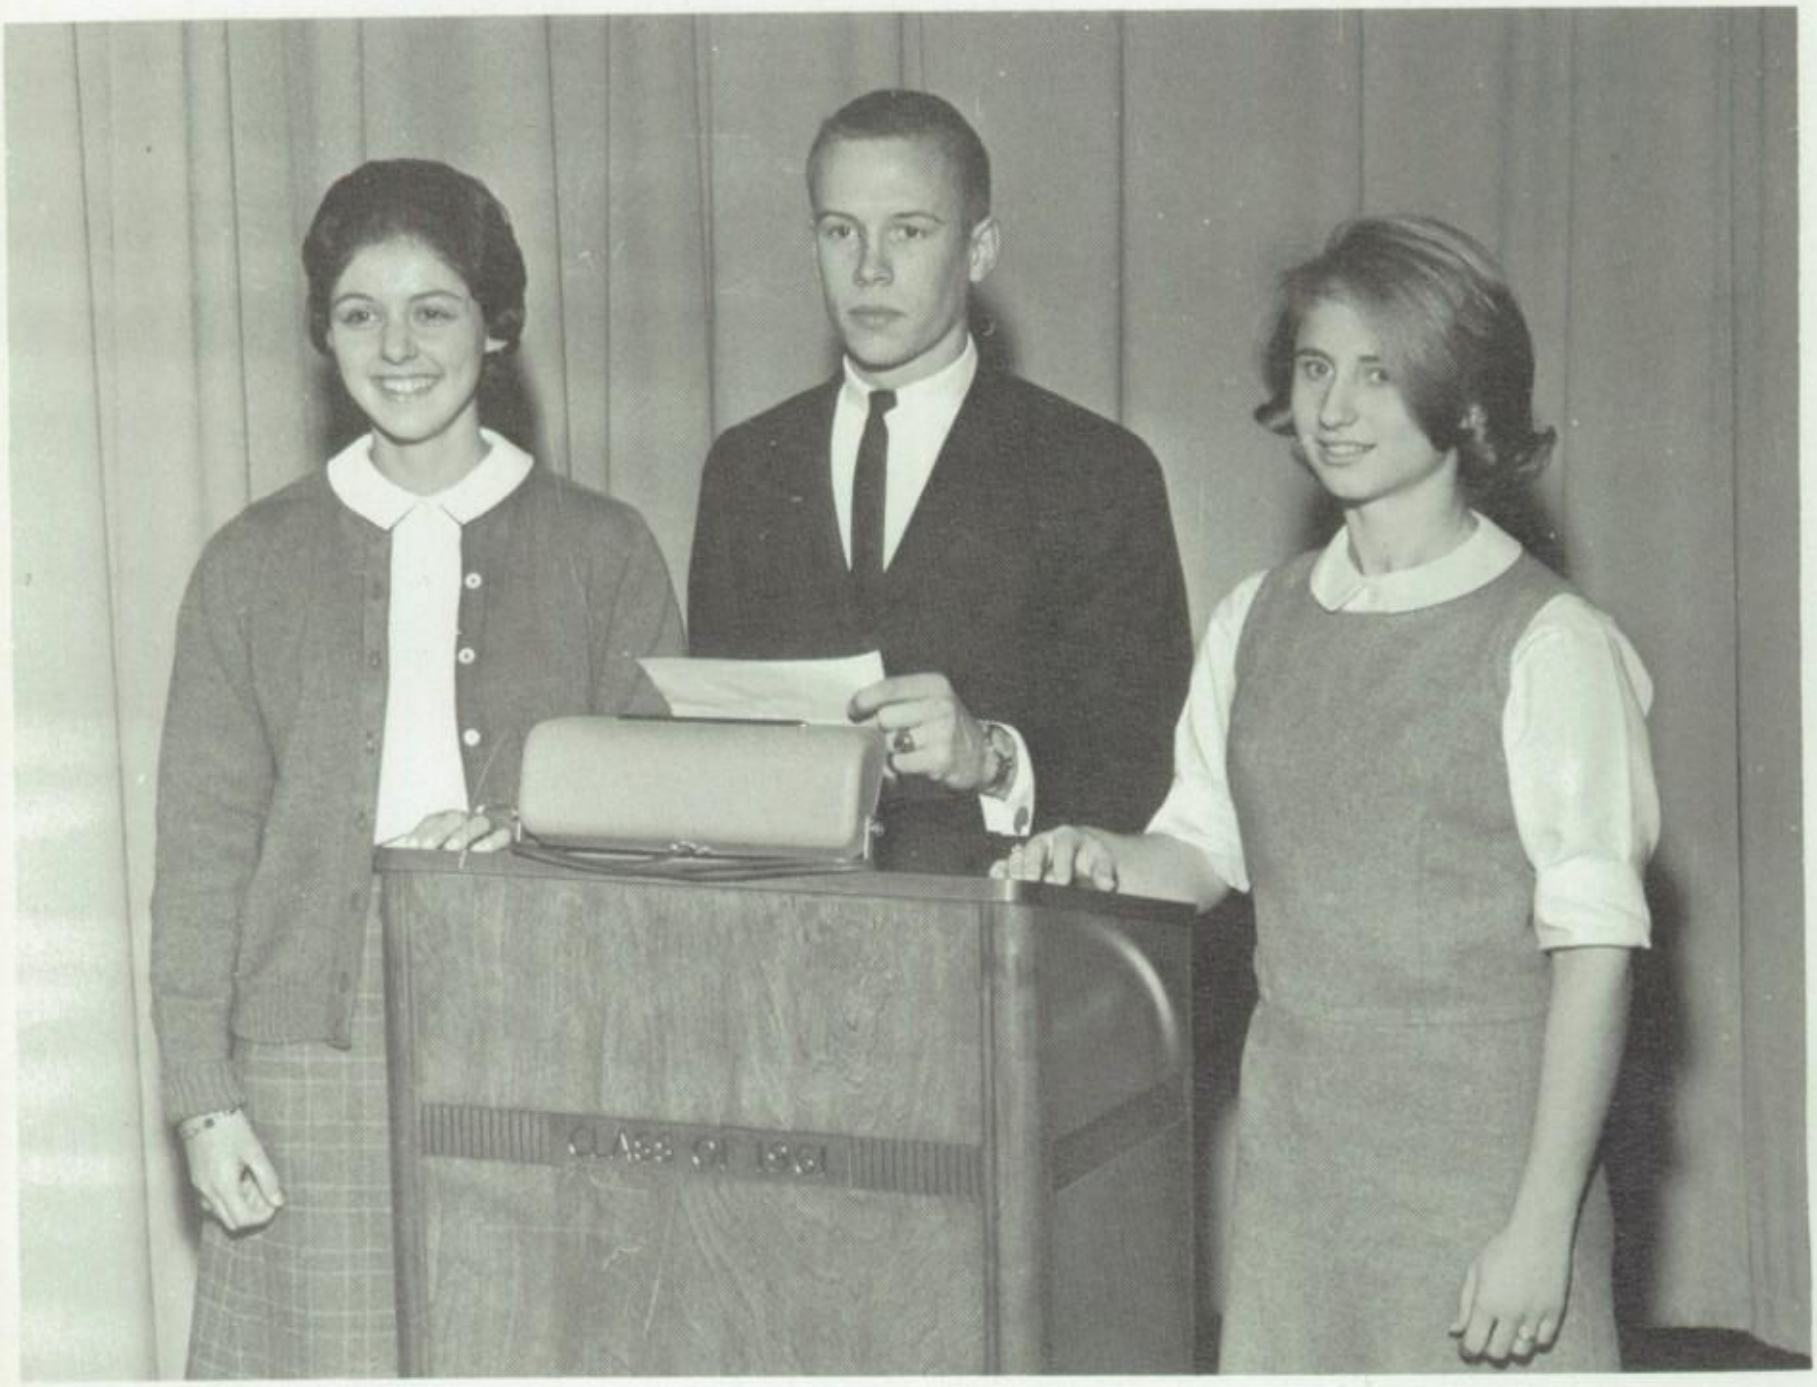
ACTIVITIES

S.C.A. efforts concentrated to adopt



Leading the student body as officers of the S.C.A. for 1965-66 were Teresa Chiles-Secretary-Treasurer, Kenny Lancaster-President, Beverly Trainham-Vice President.

The central governing body of the school, the Student Cooperative Association is a unique organization in that every student in L.C.H.S. is a member. Representation in the student body consists of selected homeroom and club representatives who voice the opinions of their fellow students at the S.C.A. meetings. The S.C.A. strives to maintain a spirit of cooperation between the students and the faculty.

Throughout the year the basic function of the S.C.A. was to conduct the assembly programs which always opened with the Lord's Prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club and the S.C.A., the Junior County Government Election was held during the fall to enable the students to learn more about election procedures.

As an annual project, the S.C.A. sponsored the festive Homecoming weekend. Highlighting this occasion was the crowning of the Homecoming Queen and the honoring of the football team and the court at the dance the following night.

Another yearly project was conducted in conjunction with Rappahannock High School. This S.C.A. Student Exchange Program was beneficial in that it enabled both schools to exchange ideas and to broaden their views.

With the help of the faculty, the S.C.A. concentrated its efforts in an attempt to draft and adopt a scholastic honor code for L.C.H.S. After studying the honor codes of other Virginia schools, a committee of S.C.A. members and teachers drew up a system which they believed would check academic cheating.

Presented to the student body and voted on in February, this honor code was defeated by an astonishing number of votes. It is probable that this resulted because the students were not given ample time to discuss and consider this proposal.

Our school S. C. A. was well represented at the Annual District Meeting, the Virginia State S. C. A. Forum, and the Annual State Conference. "FIRST" was the theme of the District Meeting held at Fluvanna High School in October. Statewide attendants at the Forum in Richmond listened with keen interest to the program presented by the foreign exchange students in Virginia. Representing L. C. H. S. at the Annual State Conference held during April at Virginia Beach, were the newly elected President and Secretary of the S. C. A.

Teresa Chiles prepares to make ballots for the Junior County Government election.

Rebels victorious over Goochland

One little, two little, three little cheerleaders dance around the blazing bonfire.

"Victory" was the cry of the L.C.H.S. "Rebels" as they defeated the Goochland "Bulldogs", with a score of 17-13, in their first win of the '65 season. With this, Homecoming weekend was destined to be a success.

Preceding the weekend festivities, spirit was aroused by a pep rally and bonfire. Solemn music and a long drum roll sounded out as the band played for the procession. Carrying the "Bulldog" dummy, the football players followed the cheerleaders as they headed towards the flaming lumber. With the strength and will that made these players a team, they tossed the dummy aloft the fire, and shouts of approval revealed the crowd's enthusiastic support.

The Homecoming Princesses--Teresa Chiles, Brenda Deavers, Ann Edwards, Becky Gallion, Betty Ann Laws, Janet Sharpe, and Peggy Thompson--were introduced and interviewed by Miss Becky Jones in an assembly preceding the election on Thursday. Each one took part in a discussion which helped to familiarize the students with them. Results of the election were kept secret until the announcement at half-time ceremony Friday night.

Jubilant Rebel "maulers" paint the town after their first victory of the season!

for a climatic Homecoming Weekend

Suspense came to a climax as half-time approached and Ann Edwards was crowned the 1965-66 Homecoming Queen by Phyllis Sprouse, last year's queen.

The Homecoming weekend was made complete as the queen and her six princesses reigned over the Homecoming Dance sponsored by the S.C.A. The theme "Football Heroes" came to life from every portion of the gymnasium. Two mannequin football players were situated at one end of the gym facing the queen and her court. The queen sat beneath a huge silver crown from which hung green and gold streamers. Above one of the two king-sized goal posts, an arch was formed by green and gold footballs, each one bearing the name of a player. Most conspicuous of all were the two hundred balloons which hung from a spider web of string forming an intricate design as it radiated from one basketball hoop to another. Candlelight glowed from each table as the music from Ken Windle's four piece band invited everyone to dance, thus, bringing the weekend to an unforgettable close.

"You're kidding! Me!" The ecstatic response of Ann Edwards as she was crowned Homecoming Queen by Phyllis Sprouse.

HOMECOMING COURT AND ESCORTS: Wayne Turney, Betty Ann Laws, Terry Johnson, Becky Gallion, Buddy Allen, Teresa Chiles, Steve Harris, Ann Edwards-Queen, Janet Sharpe, Dicky Leake, Brenda Deavers, Bobby Reynolds, Peggy Thompson, George Sprouse.

An honor organization for boys, the Interact Club of L.C.H.S. is organized under the co-sponsorship of the Rotary International and the administration of Louisa County High School. The name of the club itself is derived from the goal of the Rotary toward international action.

Valued as a very honorable position, membership in the Interact Club is held by a maximum of only eighteen boys from the sophomore, junior and senior classes. Nine members are selected each spring by the current club members on the basis of their scholarship and leadership. All members are required to maintain at least a weighted "C" average in order to remain in good standing as Interact members.

Organized primarily to serve both school and community, the Interact Club is responsible for raising, lowering and maintaining the U. S. flag displayed at L.C.H.S., posting the lunch menus, and collecting admission at all sports events.

Annually the Interact Club holds a Labor Auction at which time the organization's members are sold to the highest bidder for a day's work. With the money earned this year, the Interact Club was able to contribute $150 towards the purchase of a movie camera which was used to film this season's football and basketball games.

Elected as Interact officers for 1965-66 were: George Gordon-President, Bob Staples-Vice President, Russell Marshall-Secretary-Treasurer, Ed Fisher-Chaplain, Billy Marshall-Sergeant at Arms, William Vaughan-Parliamentarian, and Steve Harris, Andy Woolfolk and Kenny Lancaster as members of the Board of Directors. Installed in 1956, the National Honor Society is a school organization for outstanding students in the eleventh and twelfth grades. Each year it strives to create enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of high character in students of Louisa County High School.

Juniors and Seniors who have attained at least a B+ average were considered for membership and were selected by the faculty on the basis of their qualifications. Six new members were tapped into the N.H.S. this year in an impressive ceremony given before the entire student body. At that time they were awarded their membership patch, signed the roll book, and took the National Honor Society oath. These proud juniors were Pam Henderson, Susan Norton, Joanne Thomas, Beverly Trainham, Durwood Willis, and Jeanean Woolfolk.

Among the activities carried on by the local N.H.S. chapter were editing the school newspaper, THE REBEL, providing for a needy family at Christmas, and awarding a scholarship to a deserving senior member. This year the society sent Christmas cards to former L.C.H.S. students who were serving in Vietnam. Promoting the club's objective of scholarship, the club honored the all "A" students at a spring picnic.

Officiating over the activities of the N. H.S. during the 1965-66 were Steve Harris-President, William Alberts-Vice President, Linda Amick-Secretary-Treasurer, and the sponsors, Mrs. Eugenia Bumpass and Mr. Lester Brantley.

Quill & Scroll inducted new members

Judy Morse feels like a true member of Quill and Scroll as she receives her club magazine and pin from Ann Edwards.

The Quill and Scroll, the International Honorary Society for High School journalists, was organized to encourage and reward individual achievements and to raise the value of high school journalism.

Members of the Quill and Scroll must be juniors or seniors who have done prominent work in journalism. Other qualifications consist of being in the upper third of the class and recommended by the advisors of one of the school's publications, THE REBEL or THE CORE.

By paying an initiation fee, each new member receives the official pin and a two year subscription to the Quill and Scroll magazine.

The 1965-66 members of the Quill and Scroll were: Janet Sharpe, Ann Edwards, Nelson Drew, Steve Harris, and Linda Amick. The newly inducted members were: Pam Henderson, Brenda Pleasants, Betty Lou Humphries, Judy Morse, Russell Marshall.

Consisting of college-bound students, the Charles Turner Chapter of the Future Teachers of America at L.C.H.S. is an organization for those interested in teaching as a career.

Striving to better prepare its members for college life, the F.T.A. showed various filmstrips throughout the year concerning preparations for College Board Exams, the considerations to make in choosing a college, and obtaining financial aid.

This year the F.T.A. sold Christmas napkins, paper, and ribbons in order to have sufficient funds to make its annual presentation of a $75 scholarship to a worthy senior member.

Tradition was maintained as the club decorated a Christmas tree, bringing season's cheer to the halls of L.C.H.S. Faculty and members were present for the installation of officers at the annual F.T.A. picnic held at the close of school.

Officers for this year were Hilda Fisher-President, Joanne Thomas-Vice President, Jeanean Woolfolk-Secretary-Treasurer, Susan Norton-Parliamentarian, and Sally Phillips-Historian.

Hilda Fisher seems to have no problem selling Christmas wrappings to Herman Gibson.

Ex Libris brightened Medical center

Ex Libris Members: FIRST ROW: Mrs. Eugenia Bumpass-Sponsor, Switlana Turner, Phyllis Knight, Joyce Talley-Secretary-Treasurer, Linda Amick-President, Helga Kosmahly-Vice President, Gloria Jones, Linda Edwards, Carolyn Richardson. SECOND ROW: Lynn Guilford, Susie Webner, Brenda Pleasants, Molly Tiller, Valerie Riley, Christine Sharp, Judy Morse, Susanne Borden. Being able to use reference books is an important job for Ex Libris member, Linda Amick.

To create interest in books and other phases of literary work, the Ex Libris Club is an organization of student library assistants. Besides aiding Mrs. Bumpass, the librarian, in circulating and repairing books, each member is able to help other students find books by use of the Dewey decimal system, reference material, and various library conveniences.

The project for this year centered around a Yuletide visit to the patients at the Louisa Medical Center. Smiles of appreciation radiated from the faces of the patients as the club members distributed various favors.

Presiding for 1965-66 were Linda Amick-President, Helga Kosmahly-Vice President, and Joyce Talley-Secretary-Treasurer.

Rebel heads visited Newspaper clinic

Sponsored by the school chapter of the National Honor Society, THE REBEL, a self-supporting monthly newspaper, kept its readers well informed as it promoted student-faculty co-operation.

First published in 1956, THE REBEL was a mimeographed issue distributing news throughout the student body. Realizing the need for photographs and better news coverage, THE REBEL rolled off the presses for the first time in October 1963, adding pride and appeal to the school paper.

Winning many honors throughout the years, THE REBEL is especially proud of the numerous honorable mentions received at S.I.P.A. conventions, in which it has participated for ten years. Even as a mimeographed issue, THE REBEL placed second in the state in this category in 1960.

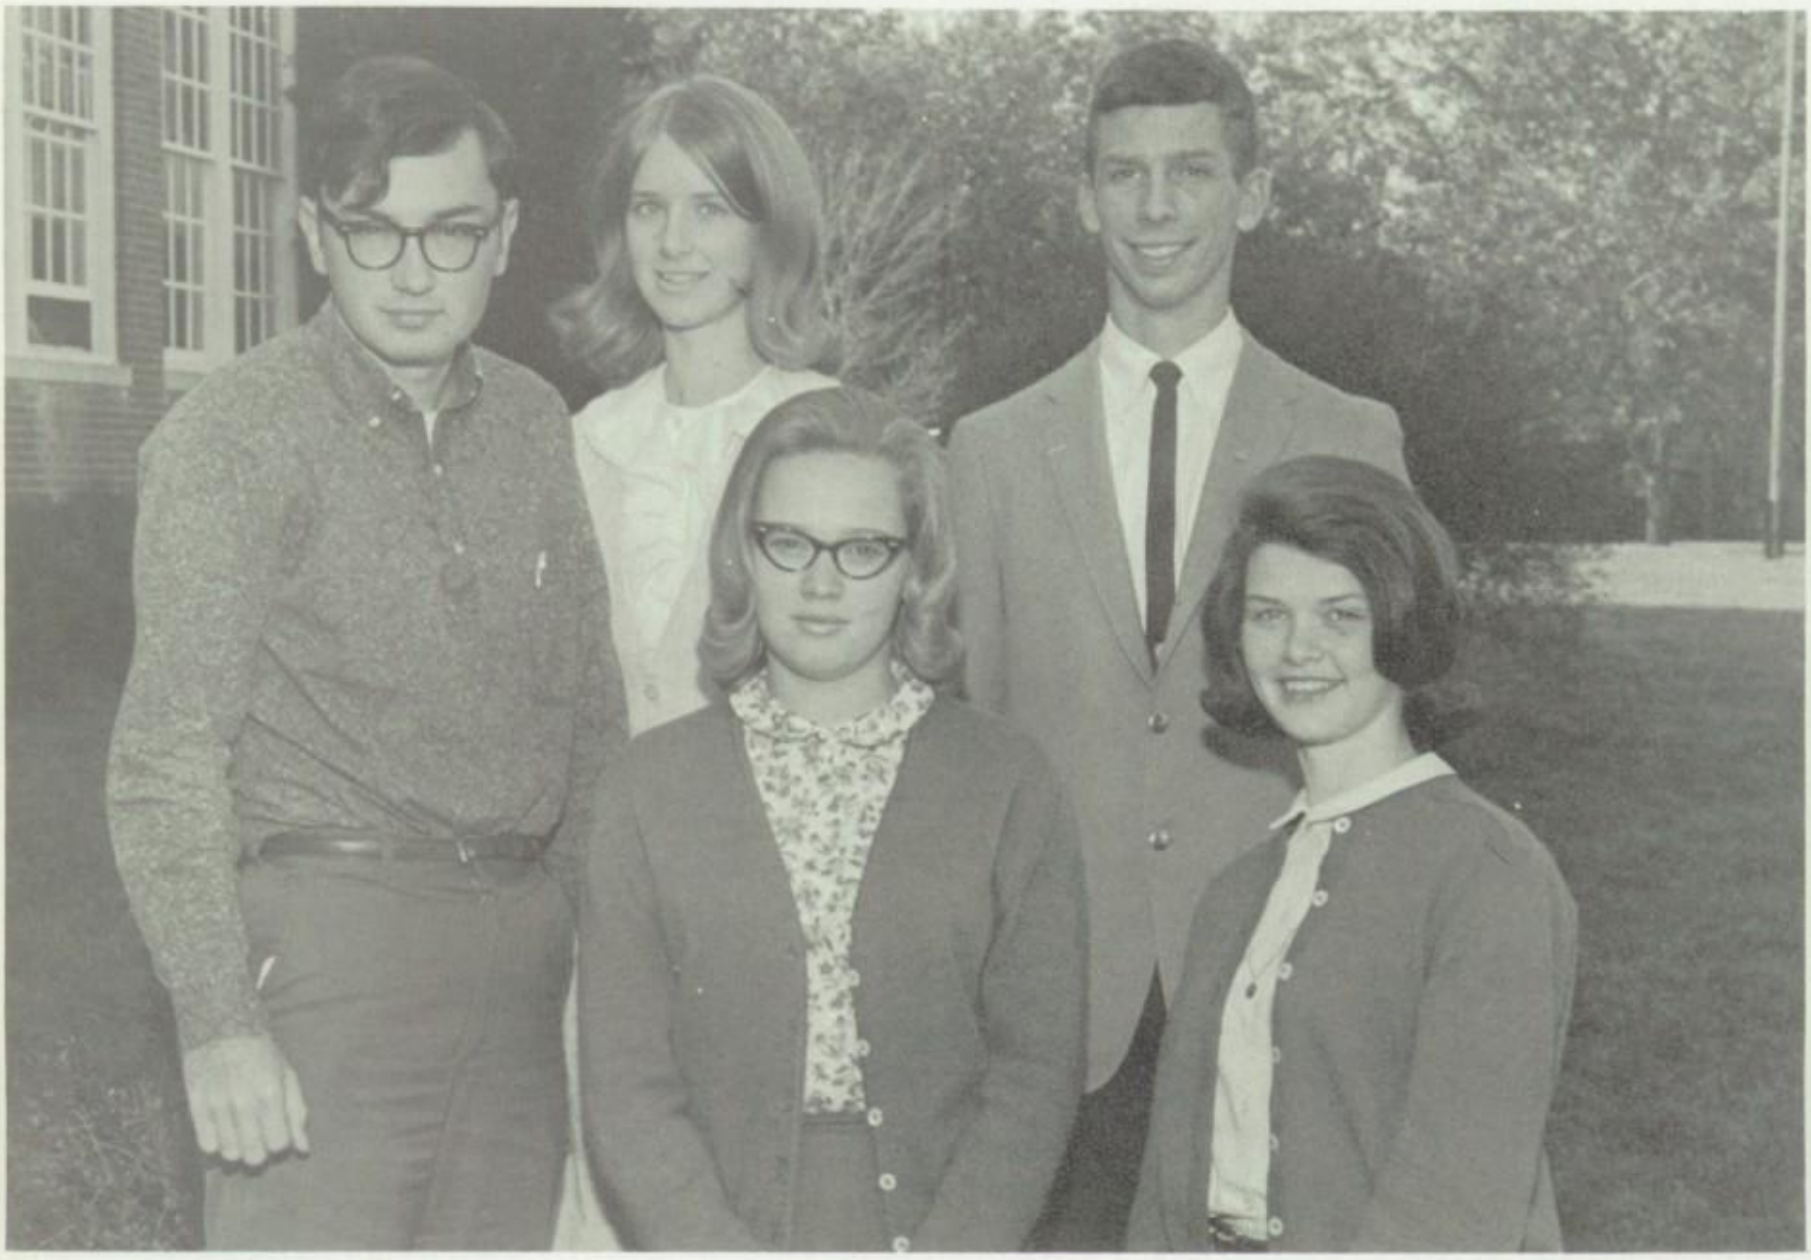
Today under the leadership of Nelson Drew-Editor, the valuable aid of the staff, and the helpful assistance of Mrs. Bumpass and Mr. Brantley, THE REBEL has six pages including editorials, features, club news, sports, fashions, book reviews, and elementary school news.

To make the paper less erroneous, staff heads made special trips to the Orange Review Office to proofread the copy before the final printing.

The staff includes members of the National Honor Society and students who have shown special talent and ability in the field of journalism and English composition. They utilized their abilities by presenting a humorous skit to encourage students to subscribe to THE REBEL.

Informative and well-written, THE REBEL deserves the praise and commendation of the entire student body.

School publications rated at S.I.P.A.



Delegates to the SIPA Convention in April 1965 were Pam Henderson, Janet Sharpe, William Alberts, Ann Edwards, and Nelson Drew.

Newly-appointed heads of the incoming staffs of THE REBEL and THE CORE annually attend the Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention in Lexington. Usually juniors, these five representatives are given an opportunity to become acquainted with the latest trends in journalism through meetings, discussions, and special programs prepared by notable journalists.

Accompanied by two of THE CORE sponsors, Mrs. Bonnie Wescott and Mrs. Nancy Woodward, these enthusiastic youths plunged into a busy but fun-filled weekend on the campus of Washington and Lee University with hundreds of other Southern representatives. Delegates of the newspaper staff, Pam Henderson, William Alberts and Nelson Drew, attended discussions concerning photography, features, and editorials. As annual staff representatives, Ann Edwards and Janet Sharpe divided their time among such topics as themes, copy, art and layout.

Participating in this journalistic convention for many years, THE REBEL and THE CORE annually submit copies of their publications to be judged in districts based upon the size of the high school. At the SIPA Convention in April, these entries were returned with their ratings, and with remarks and constructive criticism. Studied carefully, these remarks can be very helpful in improving a newspaper or annual.

Not only incorporating a weekend of observation and learning, this was also an important political event -- involving the election of a 1965-66 President of SIPA. A dance, concert, and inaugural banquet provided a congenial atmosphere for the SIPA delegates and their sponsors.

Responsibility knitted THE CORE unit

The success of anything is determined by the amount of effort and work applied. This is especially true of publishing a yearbook. Construction of THE CORE is a year-round endeavor beginning with the sale of ads early in the summer and continuing throughout the year as each deadline is met.

Being responsible is the principal qualification for all members of the annual staff. They are expected not only to be punctual in handing in their articles, but also, to be willing and cooperative at all times. Members of THE CORE Staff are subdivided into two staffs--editorial and business. Although they work hand-in-hand, combining their efforts diligently to achieve a first rate annual, they are two distinct units. The chief concern of the editorial staff included the entire make-up of the book, from taking pictures and making layouts to measuring headlines and editing copy. By collecting advertisements, and selling THE CORE subscriptions to the students of L.C.H.S., the business staff upheld the financial status of the annual.

When Saturday and after-school work sessions were necessary, everyone eagerly pitched in to help meet the approaching deadline. Mrs. Woodward, Miss Johnson, and Mr. Knapp, the sponsors, were always available to proofread copy and make helpful suggestions.

Although each staff member assisted in compiling the various sections of the annual, they anticipated its arrival even more than the student body, because, to them, THE CORE of 1966 represented the culmination of a year's work.

A wire goat played a leading role in "The Tale of Chelm."

To promote participation in, and to improve the level of forensic activities among high school students were the principal aims of the forensic groups.

Louisa County High School has several divisions of forensics, with a great number of the student body participating. Each year the forensic groups of our school compete in the district, regional, and state championships.

Debate, one of the divisions of forensics, included training in research, analysis, sound arguments, quick thinking, and effective, spontaneous speaking.

Another area of forensics, public speaking was concerned with encouraging public speaking which is direct and conversational in delivery, original in thought and treatment, and clear and interesting in arrangement and presentation.

In prose reading, the student was taught correct pronunciation and distinct enunciation, in order that he might appreciate the full meaning of the printed page. The student was encouraged to appreciate the oral communication of that meaning and to convey it to others through directness, spontaneity, simplicity, and sincerity.

Although spelling is not properly classified as a forensic contest, it was included as a forensic activity for convenience, since the spelling contest is a part of district, state and regional forensic meets. The purpose of spelling was to give the students a greater awareness of the necessity for good spelling and to encourage the habit of correct spelling.

The aim of the dramatics club was to stimulate interest and participation in dramatic art as a means of furthering the cultural and education development of students in high schools. This was the first year L. C.H.S. had had a dramatics club and many pupils have shown a great interest in this new field. Many of the members showed much talent in the excellent productions of their plays given at school assemblies.

Louisa County High School is proud of its forensics participants because it is a voluntary activity which requires much outside preparation by each individual.

Another production of the Dramatics Club, "Bontche Schweig", was enjoyed by the student body.

Students organized county government

In order to acquaint the students of Louisa County High School with their local county government, the Rotary Club and the S.C.A. sponsored a mock election in November.

To have his name considered, the prospective candidate was required to submit the signatures of twenty-five students and two teachers to his party leader. It was necessary for supervisors to submit a petition of only ten student signatures.

Prior to the convention, each party conducted an extensive campaign. The Nationalist Party and Federalist Party leaders, Russell Marshall and Steve Harris respectively, conducted an assembly at which time the candidates gave their campaign speeches. Supervisors from each district, along with the five county officials, were chosen by the vote of the student body.

These successful candidates spent a day with the county officials whom they represent: Billy Marshall-Sheriff, David Ware-Commonwealth Attorney, Teresa Chiles-Treasurer, Judy Morse-Commissioner of Revenue, Joan Bowles-County Clerk. Attending the supervisors' meeting were Robert Dillard-Jackson, John Mark Lancaster-Cuckoo, Betty Ann Laws-Mineral, Peggy Thompson-Louisa, and Susan Norton-Green Springs.

Juniors learned basis of Va. politics

With the United States flag in the background, these BOYS' - GIRLS' STATE representatives - William Alberts, Janet Sharpe, Ann Edwards, and Kenny Lancaster - pause to consider their great American heritage.

For four juniors, last summer provided a truly educational experience because these privileged people were Louisa's representatives to Virginia Boys'-Girls' State. From a list of fourteen people chosen by the faculty, the junior class selected two boys and two girls to spend a week studying the government of Virginia. Chosen to attend Girls' State at Radford College were Ann Edwards and Janet Sharpe, while William Alberts and Kenny Lancaster were selected to attend Boys' State at the College of William and Mary. These lucky juniors were sponsored by the local American Legion Post and the Rotary Club.

Upon their arrival, these students were divided into cities of fifty people from all sections - Nationalist and Federalist. With his condensed book of state government, each representative stayed up late on his first night there learning as much as possible about Virginia politics before the campaigns and caucusing started.

And then the fun began!! The first step was organizing their cities by electing a mayor and other city officials. Since each delegate was a citizen of his city and his state, he proceeded to take an active part in his party's campaigns and caucuses. Each evening they heard outstanding speakers who further familiarized them with the state government through their personal experience. The cities nominated candidates for the offices of governor, lieutenant governor, and attorney general.

As the ballots were cast and votes counted, excitement reached its height. Newly elected officials of Boys'-Girls' State took their oaths of office at an elaborate inaugural ceremony and parade.

But there was a non-political side of Boys'-Girls' State which included special entertainment. Besides concerts and the mock trial of "Frankie and Johnnie", the Canadian folk singers, Ian and Sylvia, performed for the students.

All delegates participated with fervor and enthusiasm in every phase of Boys'-Girls' State, from campaigning for the tremendous state election to getting the last speck of dust out of sight for room inspection. These Virginians made a very impressive sight as they saluted their flag, representing the American freedom which they had become intensely aware of during a week of political education, close friendship, and zealous patriotism.

Precaution stressed by Safety Patrol

Posing with active safety patrolmen are many students who are interested in promoting safety.

To remind motorists to drive with special caution near L.C.H.S., Billy Marshall and Junior Via set up one of the signs recently purchased by the school.

In its twenty-fifth year of service, the Safety Patrol at Louisa County High School took an even greater part in promoting safety.

By keeping noise to a minimum and assisting in minor emergencies, each patrolman worked with his bus driver to make the bus trips as safe as possible. Realizing that efficient drills could save lives if an emergency were to occur, the Safety Patrol members helped conduct bus drills quickly and orderly.

Whenever a problem of behavior arose, Mr. Morris, the club's sponsor, settled the issue. Mr. Morris agreed that it takes the complete cooperation of all the students working with the Safety Patrol to promote a safer and speedier transportation system for L.C.H.S.

"Will the K.V.G. boys from the Mineral District report to the back of the shop immediately." This familiar announcement during a dry season in Louisa County is followed by the sound of running footsteps as the boys hastily gather to fight another forest fire. The Louisa Chapter of the Keep Virginia Green, active since 1942, has proven to be indespensable at forest fighting in this area.

Volunteers from the Virginia Division of Forestry annually instruct the K.V.G. members in fire prevention, fire control and the most effective means of putting out a forest fire.

Sometimes to stop a raging fire the boys, divided into four districts crews, worked incessantly until after dark when the last flame was smothered. In return they receive pay and the satisfaction of being of service to their community.

The district crew leaders and their assistants this year were Wayne Dunn and William Guinn-Green Springs, Robert Riddell and Leon Perkins-Louisa, Walter Baker and James Baker-Mineral, and Walter Grubbs and Ray Edwards-Jackson.

"Morals and Manners Matter" and "Leisure Time-Constructive Time" were chosen as this year's projects by the Future Homemakers of America. To fully explore these projects very informative talks were given by ministers and other guests. Panel discussions, along with programs and skits, entertained and inspired the girls to be constructive and useful during their leisure time.

The F.H.A. again sponsored the annual trip to the Virginia State Fair. This event was not only fun for everyone, but also, very educational and profitable for those who won ribbons for their entries. Banquets and fashion shows, events sponsored by the F.H.A., became more and more popular.

Future Homemakers of Louisa High have completed another successful year with the guidance of Mrs. Jessie Dunn and Mrs. Louise Pennington and the able leadership of the officers: Susan Richardson-President, Susie Webner-Vice President, Katherine Harris-Secretary, Brenda Pleasants-Treasurer, Judy Vogt-Song Leader.

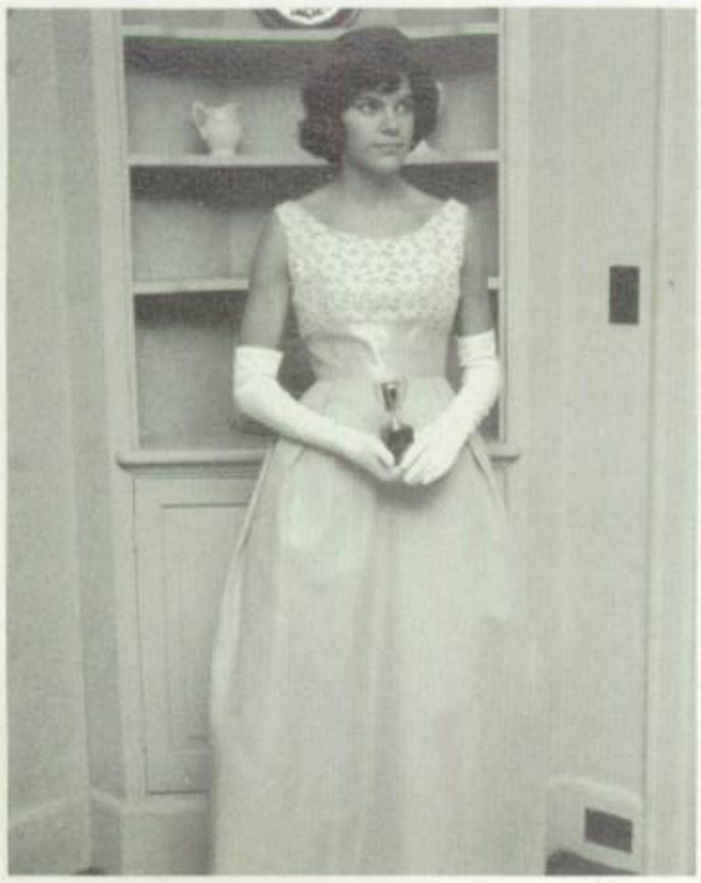
Geraldine Wilson - Miss L.C.H.S.

A hush fell over the audience as twenty-one beautiful girls, on the arms of sophomore escorts, approached the stage. Standing before a background of winter scenery, each contestant of the Miss L.C.H.S. Pageant of 1965-66 was introduced by the Master of Ceremonies, Gentleman Jim, of radio station WGOE.

Considering each girl on the basis of her poise, personality, and beauty, Gentleman Jim assisted the judges in making their decision by interviewing the five finalists. Competition narrowed as Linda Lanahan and Judy Morse were presented with trophies as first and second runners-up, respectively. The evening reached its climax as Geraldine Wilson was crowned the new Miss L.C.H.S. by Brenda Deavers, the 1964-65 winner. Immediately following the crowning, she was presented with a trophy and a dozen red roses.

Just as this was a stimulating evening for the audience and contestants, it proved to be equally exciting for the Sophomore Class, who sponsored the Miss L.C.H.S. contest. Through the sale of ads, tickets, and refreshments, the Sophomores reaped well-earned profits for their intensified efforts.

Linda Lanahan - First Runner-up



Judy Mae Morse - Second Runner-up

To increase the scholarship fund presented at the end of the year to the most deserving college-bound senior member, the Girl Friday Club held a bake sale.

Serving as President this year was Bobbie Cook, Betty Jean Sharpe-Vice President, Judy Morse-Secretary, Becky Gallion-Treasurer, and Judy Vogt-Reporter, with Mrs. Bernard and Mrs. Goodling assisting as sponsors.

Heading the list as the most educational boys' organization at Louisa County High School, the Future Farmers of America primarily aimed to teach the development of agricultural leadership, co-operation, and citizenship to boys interested in vocational agriculture.

Each year a number of contests are held for F.F.A. chapters in this area. The Louisa Chapter, in competition with other schools, has won many top honors. Last year alone, Louisa won first prize in crop judging, shop judging, and soil judging.

Many of the boys also obtained top honors at the Virginia State Fair, with George Fisher receiving special recognition as winning the State Championship for wheat production. This was especially significant in that a State Championship had been awarded to an L.C.H.S. student only once before.

This year's sponsors included Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Bradford, and Mr. Pennington. Leading the club as 1965-66 officers were Wayne Dunn - President, Leon Perkins - Vice President, John Botkins - Secretary, Walter Grubbs - Treasurer, Ray Edwards - Reporter, and Frank Nidermaier - Sentinel.

Cold-working, demonstrated by Billy Wash and John O'Connell, was one facet of agriculture study.

COL. 4: Gloria Seay, David Ware, Bill Davies, Billy Marshall, Beverly Trainham, Joanne Thomas, Robert Fisher.

Mrs. Judy Prince led the band in a student concert, displaying their various talents.

Having several goals in mind, the band has worked very hard this year. With a new band director, Mrs. Judy Prince, the band walked off with honors at the Labor Day Parade held at Mineral. During football season, the band brought L.C.H.S. new pride as they played at each home game.

Public appearances were frequent after football season as the band entertained the school and community at a Christmas Concert. This program was composed of a variety of songs ranging from the folk type to an Indian melody to the Christmas numbers. In addition to another night performance given late in the year, they played in assemblies, making their programs interesting and varied.

Though a twenty-four member band may sound small, the band has convinced the students of L.C.H.S. that a small but hard-working band can do a great deal to become a strong, worthwhile organization.

Mrs. Prince and her choral club at the finale of an excellent assembly program.

Everyday during sixth period, students in many classes could hear faint sounds of singing coming from the vicinity of the band room. They were hearing the thirty-eight-voice choral group which met as a class for the first time this year. Under the direction of Mrs. Judy Prince, this diligent group of sopranos, altos, basses, and tenors blended their voices for melodious effects. Though they had their favorites, they cultivated a taste for all types of music from folk songs and popular music to hymns and Christmas Carols.

To obtain the best results, the chorus was taught how to read notes and breathe correctly. Occasionally the group sang a capella but most of the time they were accompanied by Hilda Fisher on the piano.

Special concerts and programs were presented throughout the year for both school and community entertainment.

Notable guests entertained students

Bishop Moore spoke straight to the heart of each L.C. H.S. student.

Due to the diligent work and planning of the faculty, the assemblies this year have proven to be both entertaining and informative.

On several occasions during the year, the student body was entertained by "The Teardrops", a four member rock and roll band composed of L.C.H.S. students. One of the talented faculty families, the Knapps, gave a most interesting account of their nine months of work in Liberia as Peace Corps volunteers. Attired in the native Liberian dress, Mr. Knapp showed slides of Liberia, while his charming wife enhanced the audience with a repertoire of Liberian folk songs.

Assemblies planned by the band, the Choral Club and Mrs. Layman's choral group put everyone in the Christmas mood with their selection of songs and stories. The latest discoveries in science and medicine were revealed through the Space Program and the film on lung cancer.

Besides the monthly religious assemblies provided by local pastors, students of Louisa County High School were very honored to hear Bishop Arthur J. Moore speak on "The Five Desires". A retired bishop of the Methodist Church who now resides in Atlanta, Georgia, Bishop Moore presented this young people's message during a revival in Louisa.

Mr. and Mrs. Knapp presented their rendition of international folk favorites.

Amid Christmas scenery, Mrs. Layman's choral group sang familiar Christmas Carols.

Three retired from teaching posts

Esteem and praise are accredited to the three retiring teachers of 1966, Mrs. Edith Layman, Mrs. Augusta Randolph, and Colonel Thomas J. Randolph, for their continuous efforts revealed during their years of teaching at L.C.H.S.

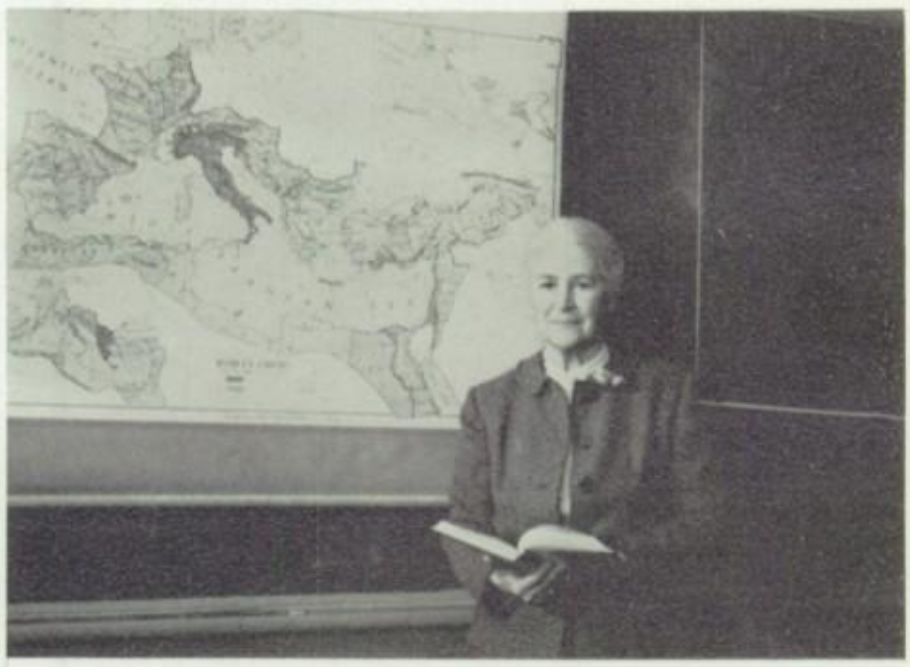
Having attended Mary Washington College, Mrs. Layman received her B.S. Degree from the University of Virginia. One year of teaching in Augusta County preceded a total of twelve years at Mineral Elementary School, Hopeful in Dabneys, and in Goochland County. Twenty-five years of her life have been devoted to teaching English and Algebra here at L.C.H.S. Her immense satisfaction derived from teaching students was accompanied by her great success as the leader of a choral group and an eighth grade sponsor.

Mrs. Randolph has primarily taught Latin I and II during her four years at L.C.H. S. Previously, she had taught various subjects at Caroline County High School in Virginia, Finch Junior College in New York and France, and St. Anne's School in Charlottesville. After twenty years spent at St. Anne's, ten years were devoted to maintaining the responsibility as head mistress of that school. Her exquisite ability as a teacher is backed by her B.A. Degree from Bryn Mawr College and her M.A. Degree from the University of Virginia.

Although Colonel Randolph has taught such subjects as English and American History, mathematics-algebra, solid and trig., advanced math and physics have remained his specialty during his ten years at L.C.H.S. Before he came here in the fall of 1954, he had spent three years teaching in Augusta County and two years educating the children of army personnel at the dependent American schools in Germany. Col. Randolph received his B.S. Degree from the University of Arizona and his M.A. Degree from the University of Virginia.

In addition to remaining fairly active in school affairs after their retirement, the Colonel and Mrs. Randolph plan to travel extensively in the U.S. and the Mediterranean.

Her knack for knitting will occupy much of Mrs. Layman's leisure time.



Standing before a map of the Roman Empire, Mrs. Randolph unfolds the wonders of Latin to her students.

A familiar figure in the halls of L.C.H.S. is Col. Randolph, always carrying his brief case full of "poop sheets".

"Then a hermit came forth and said,
Speak to us of Pleasure.
Pleasure is the blossoming of your desires.
Oftentimes in denying yourself pleasure you do but store the desire in the recesses of your being."

Rebels vs. Rebels on Rebel field produced rebellious effects!

In spite of a disappointing overall record of 2-8, L.C.H.S. Varsity Football team wound up in fourth place in a tough district of seven teams. The Rebels were very rarely at full force due to numerous injuries. Between eight boys there were three fractured bones, five "football knees", a sprained ankle, a ruptured appendix, and seventeen stitches!

Still looking for their first victory after six starts, the Rebels stomped the Goochland Bulldogs with a 17-13 victory for a triumphant Homecoming weekend at L.C.H.S. Two weeks later, at the Fluvanna Homecoming, the Flucos fell to the Rebels with a score of 18-0.

Due to snow the Annual Lions-Rotary Club Banquet was not held this year. Instead, an assembly was presented at which time football, basketball, and cheerleading awards were bestowed upon the participants. Foremost among these awards was the A. R. Southall Trophy which was taken home by Kenny Lancaster. Elmo Daniel was named "Most Valuable Back". The "Most Valuable Lineman" and the recipient of the Gold Helmet Award as the "Most Valuable Player" was Mike Bowles.

In commenting on the season, Coach Artz said that the fans were too expectant and that a team could only do so well after losing most of its offensive backfield and a good percentage of its linemen. He also stated, "We should be better next year."

third straight district season

Still undefeated for their third straight season, the Little Rebs showed great determination this year on the football field. Starting off with forty enthusiastic players, the largest number ever to try out, they completed the season with thirty-four boys. Of this total there were eight eighth graders, twelve freshmen, and fourteen sophomores.

Running their winning streak to nineteen consecutive victories, the Little Rebs ended their season with a 7-0 record. During the season some of the more experienced players assumed positions on the injury-ridden varsity squad. In spite of this loss of players, they held three teams scoreless, and set a new season's scoring record of 144 points, allowing their opponents to score only 34 points.

*Tournament Game

Capturing second place honors behind Madison in the Northern District competition, this year's Varsity Basketball team finished the season with an 8-10 record.

When the Rebels were determined, they were unbeatable as they demonstrated in their second game with Fluvanna. The bench played an important part in the success of each game, as both coach and teammates supplied the starting five with the necessary encouragement. Leading scorers for the Rebels were two lettermen, Bobby Marshall and George Gordon.

For scheduling purposes, District II was divided into two groups this year, Northern and Southern. The Northern District consisted of Louisa, Madison, William Monroe, Fluvanna and Scottsville. The members of the Southern District were Midlothian, Matoaca, Grange Hall and Powhatan.

The season ended early for the Rebels as they bowed to Midlothian in the first game of the tournament.

Determined to beat last year's record, the Junior Varsity Basketball team pulled through a rough season which ended triumphantly with a 12-6 overall record. With Mr. James Artz to coach and support them, they challenged many familiar teams on the court including a few new ones. Not knowing what to expect from these new teams, those fighting Little Rebs walked off the court victorious many times.

Notable teammates were Brooks Besley, Sammy Hix, and Steve Sheridan-Captain, who stood out in this well-rounded team.

After gaining valuable experience and relishing the taste of victory, many J.V. teammates will step up to fill positions left vacant by outgoing Varsity players. Those left will be joined by other players all eager to make their 1967 season the best ever.

STANARDSVILLE — Jim Giuseppe, one of the state's leading schoolboy scorers, hit 35 points here last night but William Monroe still bowed to Louisa, 61-56, in a Group II, District 2 contest.

Louisa, in beating William Monroe for the second time this season, upped its district record to 5-3 and its overall record to 5-7. William Monroe, making a run for the district title, dropped the loop and 6-3 overall.

Senior-Soph Combo Leads Louisa Win

There was little or nothing close in the margins between the winners and losers in Group II, District 2 basketball play Tuesday night. William Monroe's 12-point edge over Powhatan (56-44) was the only game to approach the "close" category.

In the others the margin ranged from 16 to 36 points, the widest being Matoaca's 65-29 decision over Grange Hall.

William Monroe is now unbeaten in two games, both district affairs, while Matoaca is 1-0 in district and over-all. Powhatan is 1-1, Grange Hall has yet to win.

Victorious Rebellettes dribble past

GIRLS' VARSITY BASKETBALL: Linda Harris - Co-Captain, Miss Kathy Flynn - Coach, Janet Sharpe - Co-Captain. FIRST ROW: Hilda Fisher-Scorekeeper, Joanne Thomas, Deborah Dymacek, Lou Atkins, Jane Massie, Becky Atkins, Sally Phillips, "Willie" Holley, Jeanean Woolfolk, Maureen Harlow, Gwen Lloyd-Manager.

With the final scores still on the clock, the Rebelettes end their season in shouts of victory over Fluvanna.

Practicing lay-ups and foul shots, and running laps paid off as the Varsity Rebelettes, with coaches Kathleen Flynn and Cy Weaver ended an explosive season with a 7-3 record, the best since girls' basketball was established in L.C.H.S. To lead them on to victory, the eleven member squad selected Janet Sharpe and Linda Harris as Co-Captains.

Filled with enthusiasm and team spirit at the approach of each game, every member of the squad showed real teamwork on the court. Introduced last year in girls' basketball, plays with a roving forward and guard were used throughout the '65-'66 season, requiring extra practice and earnest teamwork from all. On the offensive squad, Joanne Thomas, Janet Sharpe, and Maureen Harlow were top-scorers, racking up 349 points together. Defense, too, greatly improved by working with both 2-2 and 3-1 defensive zones.

With a squad of well-experienced players, the Rebelettes set two records this year, winning more games than in the past in a single season and scoring more points than had ever been scored in a single game. The new game record is 7-3 while the scoring record is 58 points.

The proud team enjoyed a delicious meal at their third Annual Awards Banquet given by the local Womans' Club to honor the Varsity and J.V. squads, and the coaches. When the awards were presented, Becky Atkins, Maureen Harlow, Jane Massie, and Janet Sharpe captured top honors as three-year varsity participants and were awarded white wool blazers.

With five seniors leaving the team, the Rebelettes should acquire many new members to strengthen the squad for a powerful season next year.

With forty-four seconds on the clock, the Rebelettes take time out for a good joke!

J.V.'s experienced lively season

This year the Junior Varsity Rebelettes were under the direction of their new coach, Mr. Gray Bradford. Assisting the team as managers were Bette Rackley and Judy McGehee, with Helga Kosmahly as scorekeeper.

Although the '65-'66 season ended with a 1-7 record, the J.V. Rebelettes gained valuable experience on the court and skills at the practices. With undaunted spirits, these girls intend to make use of this past years' experiences by reversing their record in the year to come.

At the banquet sponsored by the Woman's Club for the girls and their coach, five veterans were awarded certificates for their second year of J.V. participation. These girls were Barbara Phillips, Judy Johnson, Nancy Halterman, Cathy Morris, and Kathy McGraw. Newcomers to the squad, Jackie Harris, Cindy Hayes, Faye Barden, Donna Faye Sharpe, Maureen Corle, and Ann Morris received J.V. letters.

New records set by Track team of '65

Even with the introduction of a J.V. Track Team, the track season of 1965 was not as successful as that of the previous year. Although the meet record was 0-5, outstanding participation was obvious in each meet as the boys managed to keep the scores close.

Last year's lettermen were Kenny Lancaster, Gary Webster, Billy Wash, Nelson Drew, Ronnie Laws, Joe Reidelbach, and Barry Noel. In order to acquire a letter, an individual must receive at least ten points throughout the track season. Points allowed in the meets were as follows: First Place-5 points, Second Place-3 points, and Third Place-1 point.

Last year was a year for new records at L.C.H.S., as two '65 graduates set records in the discus throw and in the high jump. Hank Bagby set a new discus throw record at 121 ft. 8 in., while another letterman, Bruce Ely, cleared the high jump at 5 ft. 5 in.

*No-Hitter
Eighteen players struck out

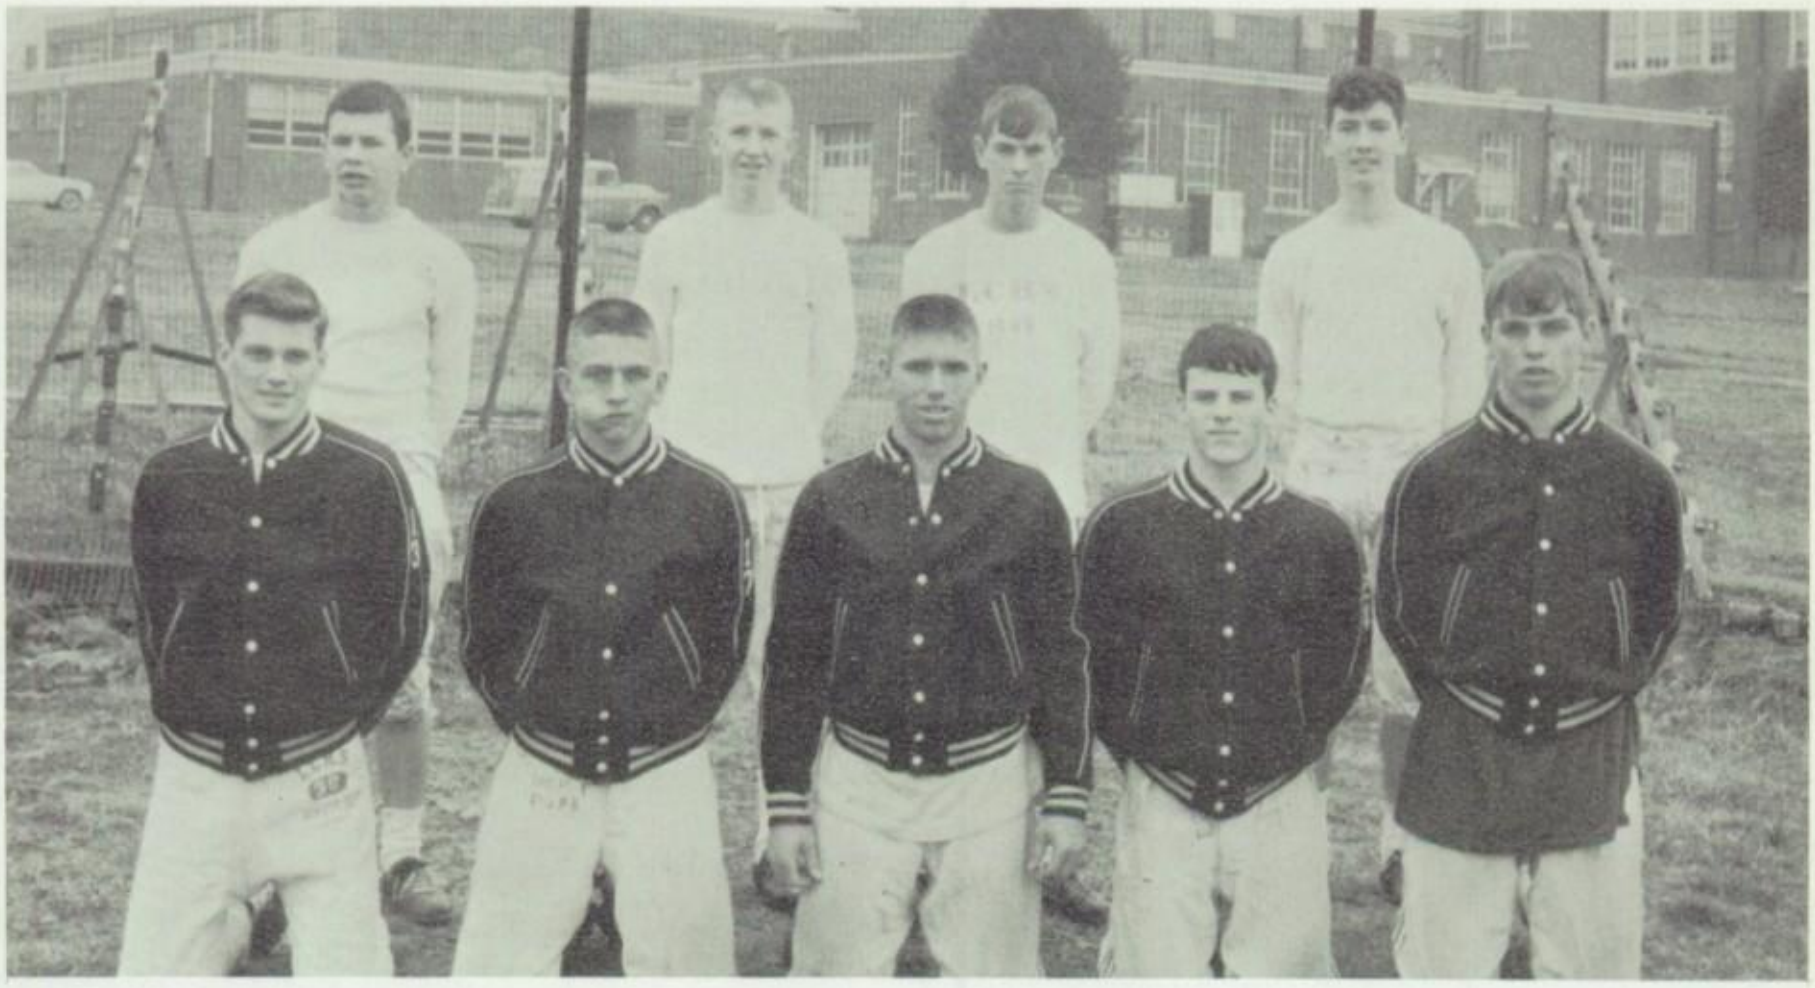
Fielding a hustling nine, the 1965 Varsity Baseball Team ended an outstanding season with an 11-3 record.

Vital power was supplied by Dicky Leake, Donald Seay, Tom Disse, Dickie Hopkins, Nick Solowow, and Roy McGehee. Other Veterans also seen on the field were Bob Staples, Elmo Daniel, Boxley Diggs, Richard Butler, B. H. Kent, Eddie Richardson and Wayne Thomas. A chief power-hitter for the Rebels, Dicky Leake pitched Louisa's first no-hitter in a 9-0 game with William Monroe. Donald Seay set a school record by fanning eighteen batters as Louisa trimmed Scottsville with a score of 8-0.

In a weak district game with Powhatan, this hard-hitting team dropped out of first place in District II standings, but ended the '65 season with second place honors.

Even with the loss of nine lettermen, Coach Smith's Varsity Baseball Team is out to end this season as District II champs.

J.V.'s run nine-game winning streak



J.V. BASEBALL TEAM: FIRST ROW: Dwight Rigsby, James Baker, Steve Sheridan, A.G. Shiflett, Tom Dillard. SECOND ROW: Mickey Kent, Gordon Gammon, Gerald Hopkins, Sammy Hix.

Not to be outdone by the record of the Varsity Baseball Team, the J.V. boys swept through their ten tough opponents with a 9-1 record. After a rugged first game with Albemarle, they perfected their pitching and fielding to completely overcome last year's 3-4 record with a nine game winning streak.

The outstanding pitcher for the J.V. team was James Baker who had a 6-1 record. Outfielders Gordon Gammon, Sammy Hix, and Steve Sheridan, and infielders A.G. Shiflett and Dwight Rigsby were also named notable players for the '65 season.

With Coach Lindsay Woolfolk's direction, these skilled ball-players have a bright outlook for the '66 season, when they'll be on the diamond again trying for a perfect record.

Varsity, J.V. Cheerleaders promoted

At each game, with pompoms waving and green skirts flying, the Varsity Cheerleaders displayed the perfection that can only be achieved through many hours of diligent practice. To promote school spirit, they inspired the student body to back the team and, at the same time, encouraged good sportsmanship.

Throughout the year, the Varsity Cheerleaders held pep rallies to rouse team morale and to build enthusiasm among the students. The energetic girls, again, carried out the plans for homecoming and decorated the goal posts in bright streamers of green and gold for each home game. Between practice and games, the Varsity squad helped orient the eighth graders with their new surroundings on their first day at L.C.H.S. With their sponsor, Mrs. Alice Russell, this year's cheerleaders were Joan Bowles, Teresa Chiles, Jeanie Duke, Pam Henderson-Head, Betty Ann Laws, Linda Kay Sprouse, and Joyce Talley.

Although sore throats and laryngitis often resulted, these Varsity Cheerleaders were always present at the sports events, vocally boosting Rebel spirits.

spirit, good sportsmanship at games

J. V. CHEERLEADERS: FIRST ROW: Nancy Maddox-Head. SECOND ROW: Jo Ann Spicer, Lana Hicks, Sue Martin, Sherry Kirkland. THIRD ROW: Nancy Ellen Marshall, Donna Shiflett, Cherylle Hicks.

At the Junior Varsity tryouts held last spring with the Varsity, each girl performed alone and was judged on her poise, rhythm, and voice. In the summer the girls began their work by soliciting ads for the football programs. They, also, played their part representing L.C.H.S. in the local parades.

With their sponsor, Mrs. Russell, this year's squad was made up of eight girls: Nancy Maddox-head cheerleader, Cherylle Hicks, Nancy Marshall, Sherry Kirkland, Joanne Spicer, Sue Martin, Lana Hicks, and Donna Shiflett. Present in unrestrained voice and vivacious spirit at each J. V. game, these girls, also sold programs at the Varsity football games and helped with the Homecoming preparations and pep rallies.

During the year each girl put in long hours of practice, hoping to make the Varsity squad next year.

Hey, girls, is this supposed to be half of a "W"?
